

Conclusion

Thank you for taking this course! We hope that you've had as much fun taking it as we had making it. Just a few more practice problems left and you'll be able to mark yourself prepared!

We'll cover the following

- Test yourself!
- Ending note

Test yourself!

To end this course, we are going to provide you with a few of the “most hated” interview questions that individuals from our community have been asked in their own behavioral interviews. Now that you know what to look for in a question and have had many hours of practice, try your hand at answering these in the video widget portion below! You have 2 minutes to record.

- Where do you see yourself in x amount of years?
- What are your weaknesses?
- Why should we hire you?

Seems like your browser does not support this widget. We recommend using Chrome or Firefox

Ending note

Congratulations on finishing the behavioral interview course! We hope that you feel better prepared to tackle the behavioral portion of your technical interviews.

Even though you have completed this course, it is important to prepare and practice questions and points of commonality before each interview. The more you practice something, the easier it will get; and remember, it's better to be yourself and not get a job where you don't fit into the culture than faking who you are and ending up in a job that you hate.