

Quiz

1

How would we distinguish between grayscale and RGB image data?

- ☐ A) Grayscale image data will have one channel, while RGB image data will have three
- ☐ B) RGB image data will take on a larger range of pixel values than grayscale images
- ☐ C) Grayscale image data uses negative pixel values while RGB data uses positive values
- ☐ D) Grayscale and RGB data is the same, it is just interpreted differently by the code

COMPLETED 0%

1 of 3

