Coding Challenge #1: Counting Elements

In this coding exercise, you will take an element and count the number of corresponding elements.

Counting Elements

Here is some HTML code (content is by French poet Paul Verlaine)

Complete the following program to write the countElements() function, that takes a CSS selector as a parameter and returns the number of corresponding elements:

Note: Before testing your code, please run the code by pressing RUN button. Then, you can click TEST button. Otherwise, the test cases won't pass even if the code is correct.
